

Hello Animators!

As we think about what we can do in this time of Coronavirus, I want to work on a fluid and frequent communication avenue. I've heard from a few of you, but would like to have better communication with everyone!

I will be sending you some inspirational video links to get you thinking about possibilities for your final project this week. Here is the first one: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=FO91SsFXjtg>. Next week (March 23 following) I will start with some assignments as we go into remote class mode.

Due to the uncertainty of the moment, we will need to have multiple options/ plans to complete the semester. In order to make these plans, I need information from you and good communication with you.

Please answer the questionnaire the college is sending, but also reply to this email and answer my specific questions: (you can reply and insert your answers)

1. Where are you now and where will you be starting next week? (what time zone?) (street address)
2. What is your phone number? (do you see texts faster than email?)
3. What type of computer do you have? Can it handle Adobe Suite? Dragonframe? (if free)
4. What type of internet connection do you have? can it handle live streaming, google meets, etc?
5. Do you have some type of camera? (from a smart phone, to webcam, to DSLR) what type
6. Do you have a tripod? or any type of holder for your camera?
7. Do you have a drawing tablet, ipad?
8. How large a space will you have to work while you are home? (compare to your space in 101)

Before break I handed out the final assignment description. The prompt involved starting with an autobiographical fact. Although this is still the main prompt, I wonder if you might want the option to respond creatively to the current situation with the coronavirus? It is our special gift as artists to use our creative forces to reinterpret and deal with many topics. I will include two images below of artistic responses to the virus situation.

Please respond as soon as possible so that we can stay on track!

and stay safe!

Fondly,

Claudia
